DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by the Japanese reference (2000-9292).

The Japanese reference teaches a frame system for supporting apparatus, comprising a bottom frame member (Figs. 3-4, 23), a top frame member (20), and columns connecting the bottom and the top frame; wherein the bottom frame (23) and the top frame (20) are formed of parallel plates (28, 37) that are connected by a plurality of longitudinal plates (31, 60) and a plurality of transverse plates (33, 60); wherein the longitudinal plates and the transverse plates are joined in a mortise joint, in which the plates having parts constituted from each other (sections [0028-29]), so that the transverse plates extend to an edge of the bottom plates through the longitudinal plates (Fig. 1); wherein the plates are rigidly connected so that less welding is required (section [0012]).

3. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the admitted prior art (Specification, pages 1-2).

The admitted prior art teaches a support frame comprising a bottom frame member (34, 36, 38), a top frame member (30), columns (32) connecting the bottom and the top frame; wherein the bottom frame part is formed by parallel bottom plates (38) interconnected by a plurality of longitudinal plates (36) and transverse plates (34).

In regard to the flame cut bottom plates, the method of how the plates were made has no patentable weight in an apparatus claim. The claims have to show how the apparatus structure different than the prior art structure, not how they are made: weld or flame cut. “[E]ven though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process.” In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985) (citations omitted)
